BRANDS SENATOR'S CHARGE AS FALSE

International Farm Congress Leader Says Meeting Was Not Secret.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington—Denial of recent charges by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin that an agreement not to push legislation to repeal the so-called guaranty section of the transportation act, and to restore state control over interstate rates, was obtained from farm organization leaders at a conference here with representatives of the railroads and of coal and lumber interests, was made Wednesday by W. I. Drummond, Kansas City, chairman of the board of governors of the International Farm Congress.

Session Not Secret
Mr. Drummond, who attended the conference Dec. 8, which was termed a "secret" meeting by Senator La Follette, declared the session was not secret and that the agricultural representatives "held out uncompromisingly" for repeal of the guaranty clause in the transportation act, and that the railway executives agreed not to oppose its repeal.

Seek Rate Reduction
The object of the conference, as far as the farm organization leaders are concerned, he said, was to obtain quickly the greatest possible reduction in freight rates and "to cause the correction of any condition or practice unfair to agriculture by peaceable means." He added, contending the 20 per cent rate reduction already made on agricultural products was more than enough.

Committees Are Appointed for Legion "Follies"
With the designation of former commander Leigh J. Woodworth as master of ceremonies and appointment of committees, the work which will culminate in the presentation of Robert P. Sheehan's famous show here at the Myers theater February 6-7 is underway.

A meeting of the committee members was held at the city hall Tuesday night.

The committees under whose guidance the organization will here attempt to "practically show" the audience as much success as experienced at Rockford are as follows:

General committee—Dr. Leigh J. Woodworth, chairman; John Gross, Frank Sinclair, Frank Gleason and Dr. C. P. Clark.

Talent—Dr. Irving Clark, chairman; Ed Leary and J. E. Wood. Chaperones—Miss Gertie Cobb, Publicity—Frank Sinclair, chairman; Ralph Kamps, Louis Shea, Ted Corrado, and Carl Teat.

Hall committee—Louis Shea.

The show to be given here is the greatest show of the kind, production nearly $5,000 worth of scenery and costumes to make the show an elaborate one is available.

Mr. Sheehan who will personally direct the show will be personally directing the show at the meeting here Tuesday night.

Commander Ralph Kamps said Tuesday that from many individuals and organizations. A call for talent will be issued soon. It is planned to have the largest chorus seen in Jansville home talent productions in many years.

ASSESSOR TRAINS NOT POPULAR WITH "WAYWARD WILLIES"

International Farm Congress Leader Says Meeting Was Not Secret.

No longer can the "wayward willies" be seen dragging their blind or overburdened trains of passenger trains of the roads. Fear of the leeches, who shot to kill have led him to abandon all hopes of riding fast passenger trains, as he used to be, they were placed to guard main trains.

HARMONY TAX NOTICE

DRAW ISSUES FOR CAMPAIGN OF 1922

Drays Plan War Against Blaine; Taxes to Be Prominent Topic.

Madison—The issues on which the 1922 political campaign in Wisconsin will be fought out are already formulated by the La Follette group, and established to a degree by the opponents, the so-called straight republicans, as expressions by leaders from each faction are authentic.

The La Follette faction, headed by Governor Blaine on the state side, and together with a legislature pledged to revise the income tax rates upward, increasing exemptions at the same time, to amend the income tax, and to establish a surtax on incomes over $5,000 to raise funds for the university and normal schools.

While their opponents are urging drastic revision of the state taxation laws, the straight republicans will be carrying their campaign against what they claim to be radicalism, represented by the nonpartisan league, and by the program of the La Follette faction. Prohibition will enter as a factor, the Anti-Saloon league says.

The attack on radicalism will be aimed at the La Follette men by their opponents, who will claim that they are willing to accept a wide program and proposals which are socialistic in nature, if able to gain control of the state.

An Anti-Saloon league spokesman has said the league will back Attorney General Morgan if he is a candidate for the governorship, but would be unwilling to expend cash funds should two day candidates enter the field against Governor Blaine and claim league support.

Many policies of the straight republicans will probably be formulated at the meeting of the Committee of 41 in Milwaukee which is expected will be held in April.

RADICALS SWAMP YUCATAN
Mexico City—A region devastated by radicalism which by drastic oppression is accomplishing its own ruin is the description of the state of Yucatan given by the Associated Press.

From recently by the Associated Press, which has an influential business man of that state. He pictured a state living from hand to mouth, its finances a wreck, its teachers paid for six months, and the government a dominant force.

School will start Monday morning, when both teachers will return from Christmas vacations.

THE "MOTHER OF MEDICINE"
Isis, the Queen and afterwards the Goddess, was called the "Mother of Medicine." In ancient Egypt, centuries before Christ, women were skilled in medicine. They knew the great value of medicinal plants.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, now known everywhere as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, this is a woman's medicine for women's ailments, prepared from medicinal plants.

Whitewater

(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Whitewater—A. P. Andrews, a former pastor of the Methodist church, now of Billings, Mont., gave a talk Tuesday night at the M. E. church and showed stereoscopic slides. Mr. Andrews' work is that of organizing Sunday schools. He stops in Whitewater on his return from Evanston, Ill., where he has been attending a Sunday School workers' convention. The Masonic organizations of the city celebrated New Year's day Monday with a banquet served in the dining room at 8:30 p. m. in the hotel.

Just as many people as could battle their way into the court room were present again Wednesday at the Vermeersek trial. The court was in the afternoon by the court to be entered by the corps of deputy sheriffs on the seating and standing room. Just why so many people should want to stand for hours packed into a jail cell, or public park for the sake of seeing a trial, is a question that has not been answered.

Quiet in Anticourt
Hours before the opening of the trial they came to see the scene and then the crowd was quiet. The crowd was in the rear and side aisles they pecked, climbing up to the window ledges and even standing outside the doors and down the stairways. There were no shouts or cries, but they might get in.

Men Sit—Women Stand
There was the laborer just taking an afternoon off from the factory. There was the man who had been in the coal mines, wedged in between the coal heaver was a pretty mess with a neatly tailored suit and purple hat who strove vainly to reach the railing. The crowd was finally got tired of standing and sat down on the floor, the men who managed to elbow their way to the front, to complete their view of the case. To give to their parents for being away all day. In the front row were the men who came early. Standing near the door were a number of gray haired men, some of whom were who shifted from one foot to another as the time dragged on, but still staying.

EMERALD GROVE

Crowds in Court Room Listen With Tense Quiet to the Vermeersek Trial

There is a fascination watching the crowd which endures the discomforts of a packed and hot room to hear and see a court trial and likewise there is a fascination in the trial in the crowd. Some night call it "mob psychology," but rather it seems to be an common interest in the unusual, the individual fighting for his life and liberty, or the fight of law to convict a man accused of murder.

It is a light even if started in a staid court room, with officers in keep order, where silence is demanded and respect commanded—and the public curiosity is light.

Just as many people as could battle their way into the court room were present again Wednesday at the Vermeersek trial. The court was in the afternoon by the court to be entered by the corps of deputy sheriffs on the seating and standing room. Just why so many people should want to stand for hours packed into a jail cell, or public park for the sake of seeing a trial, is a question that has not been answered.

"What it takes to build a man up and make him feel right, Tanlac certainly has it," said Alexander Duncan, 810 Fernhill St., Detroit, Mich., a valued employee of the Dodge Motor Co.

"I had been suffering for a year or more from indigestion and what was called an 'acid stomach' condition. I was not able to eat anything after eating I suffered from sour stomach, bloating and gas, which got so bad at times as to make my heart palpitate terribly. Some nights I was awake for hours unable to sleep. My liver was sluggish and at times I had headache. I also suffered a great deal with boils and felt tired and worn out all the time."

"I had not had my first bottle of Tanlac until I was feeling a great deal better. My appetite was keener, my digestion better and my sleep more restful. My liver is in good shape and my blood is pure. I have no more trouble with boils. What I needed was just an all-around building up and Tanlac has done the very thing. JANUARY WILL BE MILD, MEAD SAYS

Temperature Well Above Freezing Until Blizzard, the 22nd.

January will be featured by mild weather, especially during the two weeks beginning next Saturday, according to latest predictions of L. C. Mead, Janesville's weather prognosticator now in Milwaukee. The mercury will rise as high as 55, he forecasts. There will be a blizzard Sunday, Jan. 22, he says.

Mr. Mead has prepared the following forecast for the two weeks, Jan. 7-21, explaining that the word "trace" means rain or snow, too light to measure.

Saturday, Jan. 7—Moderating up into the 30's; 8th, partly cloudy, between 45 and 50 degrees; 9th, partly cloudy, rain trace, 50 degrees; 10th, partly cloudy, mostly fair, 55 degrees; 11th, cloudy, clear by sunset, 45 degrees; 12th, clear, 50 degrees; 13th, fair but with increasing cloudiness, 53 degrees; 14th, cloudy, snow trace, 37 degrees; 15th, clear, 32 degrees; 16th, partly cloudy, 40 degrees; 17th, mostly fair, 45 degrees; 18th, cloudy, trace, 35 degrees; 19th, clearing, colder, 20th, fair, mild; 21st, cloudy, cold, blizzard by night or Sunday; 22nd, blizzard.

December Was Mild
"In looking over my last forecast printed, I see they evidently omitted two storm dates I set for the 22nd and 23rd," says Mr. Mead. "There was no precipitation to amount to much, but very high winds on the 22nd."

"December, 1921, was a milder December than a year ago when the cold weather started the 15th with its sub-zero weather between Christmas and New Year's. The carpenters who worked on those houses just off Ruger avenue winter before last when it was 20 below zero for a week during the middle of December, certainly will be willing to swear that this December was summer compared to that.

More Records Needed
"I have made out a special everyday forecast for two weeks during January. The reason I don't try to do this more is because of the lack of records that fill the bill. If we only had the records for the past 50 or 100 years we might write out a forecast for every day in the year. I think my records ought to fill the bill for this January successfully. It would show the people what could be done if we had the right records to go by always."

Elkhorn

Elkhorn—At the annual meeting of the Elkhorn Elks club held at Elkhorn last Friday night the following officers were elected for 1922: President, Dustin Dalmeyer; secretary, Mrs. Albert Witt; treasurer, Harold House. One of the interesting numbers on the program was an address by Dr. Rich of Lake Geneva on tuberculosis in farm animals.

Three Meetings to Be Held
Field Secretary, Will Foster of the Farm Bureau will hold three township meetings this week for the purpose of election of officers and outlining the work of that organization for the coming year. On Wednesday evening a meeting will be held in Richmond for that township; on Thursday afternoon a meeting will be held in the Lyons hall for Lyons township; and in East Troy on Friday evening for Troy township.

500 Tournament
The American Legion of Elkhorn will continue their 500 tournament this week Tuesday evening in their lodge rooms. The new officers of the legion announced that there will be something doing at their rooms in the Weism building every Tuesday evening for the remainder of the winter. As the legion meets twice each month on Tuesday evening, this means that every other Tuesday will be given over to a good time, exclusively.

Greatest of Sports
Many Elkhorn people are interested in the carnival of sports being carried on at Geneva Lake. A good sized representation were over on Monday and report the sport.

Miss Peckham, a returned missionary from Japan, will occupy the pulpit at the M. E. church next Sunday morning.

CARE IS URGED TO STOP DIPHTHERIA

41 Cases in 1921, Eight in December; Keeps Health Officer Busy.

Diphtheria is increasing in Janesville, according to Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, who so far this year has placed 41 cards on homes as compared with 8 in 1920. Six homes are now under quarantine, nearly all being children. Dr. Welch has one serious case at the children's hospital of a young woman ill with diphtheria and scarlet fever.

A large number of the cases have been traced to carriers, both healthy and diseased, coming to the city. The health officer has been called to make examinations of cultures.

A person who is quarantined for diphtheria if the clinical evidence is strong, regardless of what the culture indicates, said Dr. Welch. "The cultures are not always correct, lots can happen between here and Madison."

More Care Urged.
Dr. Welch calls attention to the regulations of the state board of health in regard to diphtheria. "Diphtheria has increased at an alarming rate," said the report from the state health department. "There were 365 deaths in 1920, equaling the highest death rate ever recorded in the state. Investigation made shows that the majority of the families in which deaths from diphtheria occur, if diphtheria is to be robbed of its terrors every physician and health officer must have a clear up-to-date knowledge of the disease, which requires the quarantine of patients or carriers until two negative cultures have been taken not less than 24 hours apart. Contacts both adults and children must be quarantined until one negative culture has been obtained from the nose and throat. All release certificates must be taken by a representative of the local health board. Attending physicians may be deputized."

Dr. Welch reports eight cases of diphtheria in December; only one in each of the months of November, October, September, August, July, June, May, April, March, February, January, and December.

December Big Month.
Other work of the city health officer during December consisted of: Complaints investigated, 29; letters sent, 61; notices sent, 24; inspections, 10; calls for disinfection, 7; rooms fumigated, 2; examinations for contagious diseases, 58; places removed from homes, 23; interviews on health work, 58; specimens stained, 3; blood taken for Wassermann test, 1; detention hospital calls, 8; patients attended, 31; permits for work, 1; patients removed to detention hospital, 3; antitoxin given persons exposed to diphtheria, 4; diphtheria carrier released from quarantine, 1; Dr. J. J. Woodworth, city sanitary inspector, reports the following for December: Inspections, 205; inspections of alleys, 33; complaints investigated, 13; interviews, 27; notices sent out, 8.

Plans for Year Discussed by Rotary Club

Outlines of affairs and activities to which the Rotary club should give support during 1932 were made at the weekly meeting of the club at the Grand hotel Wednesday noon. L. A. Markham talked on the schools and the need of the business men interesting in doing everything possible to help the schools. He told of the financial condition, stressing the fact that the total amount of money needed is more at the present time. He urged the Rotarians to interest themselves in the grade and high school graduates, especially in these uncertain times.

The wonderful work which is being done by the Y. M. C. A. as a community organization and in training the youth to become better citizens and stronger men was outlined by J. L. Wilcox. He asked that Rotarians interest themselves in what the Y. M. C. A. is doing, by visiting the place. He told of the community work, especially the establishment of five new groups made possible by the Lovejoy memorial fund, with an additional member of the staff. He said that the Y. M. C. A. with 554 members, had more than ever in their history.

A plea for support of the Chamber of Commerce and especially the moral support in "killing" unjust criticism of the organization, which many times has no foundation was made by Frank Jackson.

Judge Charles Pfeiffer suggested further loyalty of members to the club and referred especially to the Rotary-Kiwanis bowling contest. He spoke on the need of the Rotary club in furthering the bringing of the 1932 state bowling tournament to Janesville. The Rotary club send five teams to the state tournament this month. A committee of Judge Pfeiffer, Ed. Koller and Kenneth Jeffris was chosen to secure five teams.

Mr. Daniels, engineer for the life insurance underwriters, will speak at the Rotary meeting next week on the possibility of a readjustment of the insurance rates in Janesville, according to H. J. Cunningham, chairman of a committee appointed last year to investigate the possibility of lowering the rates.

The suggestion was made that a public demonstration with open house for the military companies be held Washington's birthday. The matter was referred to Thomas Howe, a chairman of the public affairs committee.

JANESVILLE MAN WASN'T IN COURT

The man who was fined $10 and costs or 15 days in municipal court here, Saturday, was not Frank Mount. Janesville, but Frank Mount. Battimore, Md., the police department record shows. He had been working in the ice harvest in Northern Wisconsin, made a little money, and came to Janesville, where he put on a little liquor party all by himself.

Brickson Murder Trial

rod to the west, and then the finding of the body the next morning and the results of the medical examination. Streets was made on the physical build of the slain woman, it being stated she was a woman of strong mental and physical strength, for being 32 years of age.

"She was the house of the Brickson household, handled all the money and did the business deal. It was stated. 'The defendant, because he worked at the Brickson home for several months, was the only man, besides the husband, who knew of the fact that Mrs. Brickson kept the valuables and money upstairs.'"

"He saw her put the money to pay him for his work when she went to get it and he knew how to get to this room up the ladder. He is the only outside man who had this information."

Vermereck Here.
"We'll show that Henry Vermereck was in Janesville on Thursday and here on Saturday, the day of the murder. We'll put three witnesses on the stand who saw a man, looking like Vermereck, in the field near the Brickson home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of November 11. We'll show that witnesses are positive that Vermereck is the one who carried the $10 check stolen from Mrs. Brickson and that on the ride to Beloit Vermereck admitted that the reason why he could write the name 'Brickson' was because he had worked there during the summer."

Had a Revolver.
"We claim that this defendant is the only one who would know that the Brickson kept valuables and money upstairs in a newly constructed house that from the room looking unoccupied or just being built. The defendant had a 22 calibre revolver, which was found in the room. He had a belt of cartridges with just seven missing. Four were fired when Mrs. Brickson was slain and three were found in the pocket of the defendant. Tell of the lights appearing in the upstairs room soon after the shooting and no one knew about that room except the defendant."

Three Boys Saw Him.
Three boys who were hunting the afternoon of the 11th are on the stand as witnesses. They passed near the Brickson home and saw a man in the yard, near the rear door, and the time has been established between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. To what extent they will identify the slayer, they saw, lingering near the home and the defendant is not known.

So the Vermereck trial becomes a court battle between the defense, claiming that Vermereck was in Beloit all day and the night of the murder and the state claiming he was at the Brickson home the afternoon of the murder.

The state will rely on the fact that the murderer was known by Mrs. Brickson as a man, and that he was the one who carried the $10 check stolen from her. One shot was in the back, lodging in the spine and paralyzed the woman so that she fell to the ground and was shot in the fourth and fifth ribs. The shot was fired as she lay on the ground, bleeding and torn because she evidently knew the murderer. This shot penetrated the heart and caused her death.

Thirty Witnesses Present.
There were 30 witnesses in the jury trial of the Brickson murder. All of them were to be called during the trial. The most of the witnesses are for identification for the state or for supporting the alibi of the defense. The Brickson home soon after court was called. The trip out there, over the ice covered road was slow. Many of the jurors were towards completing the trip. The jury then walked to the house, and near the hill, and walked the last quarter of the mile. The touring car carrying the attorney, who skidded across the road and came within a few feet of going into the ditch.

Out to Brickson Home.
It was drizzling and wet when the jury started the house. Nels Brickson now living with a relative near Evansville. They were shown the rooms, which now have a stairway instead of the rickety ladder and bed upstairs to a room where the furniture is stored. This door was padlocked. Downstairs the jury was shown the living quarters and then on the west side the spot where the body was found by the husband returning from work at the sugar company on Saturday morning, November 12. To the west across a ravine is a plank-board shed and across the street is the material witnesses for the state.

Vermereck There.
Vermereck made the trip in charge of Under Sheriff Fred Boley. The defendant walked around the house in an unconcerned and free manner with the sheriff with him and did not show any agitation or nervousness.

Back to Court House.
The jury returned to the court house at 10:30 o'clock and after a short rest filed into their seats for the hearing of the state's arguments. The crowd was orderly and after the seats were filled and rear aisles packed, deputies refused to allow any more to enter the court room. Only the jury and the state's attorneys were permitted to enter the courtroom.

After Instructions to the Jury.
After the instructions to the jury against talking, reading or discussing the case, the state started the testimony.

Nels Brickson on Stand.
The first witness was Nels Brickson, who walked calmly to the stand to testify. He presented a grizzled appearance, a strong man, who carefully guarded his words and statements.

"I ain't going to swear to anything but what I know he is," he testified. "I know he is the man who carried the money upstairs and he carried it to the room up the ladder. I saw him put the money to pay him for his work when she went to get it and he knew how to get to this room up the ladder. He is the only outside man who had this information."

"When I left home the day she was killed, my wife was sewing in the downstairs room," swore the witness. "I saw her put the money to pay him for his work when she went to get it and he knew how to get to this room up the ladder. He is the only outside man who had this information."

DOG LICENSES IN DEMAND IN CITY

28 Tags Issued Up to Noon of Second Day—New Auto Licenses Out.

Licenses of all kinds are in demand this week, especially those for dogs and automobiles.

Tags for 28 dogs had been issued to residents up to noon, Wednesday, by Mrs. E. J. Sartell, who has been deputized by City Treasurer W. J. Lennart to take charge of the dog tags during the tax collecting period. The tags have been distributed throughout the city with no opportunity to dispose of licenses.

Several sought the distinction of having tag number 1, but were disappointed. The first tag was given to Howard W. Lee, in giving out the tags for the county, presented the city treasurer with those beginning with number 561 and running high.

"Duster," a male Boston bull, has the honor of wearing the first 1932 license issued in Janesville, his owner, August Wersching, 618 Prospect avenue, Beloit, has been in line at Mr. Lennart's office, Tuesday.

A list of the next nine dog owners to secure licenses, together with the descriptions of their dogs, follows: No. 562—'Snookie,' female, black, owned by John Dempsey, 424 Cherry street.

No. 563—'Ginger,' spotted, owner, Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, 624 S. Second.

No. 564—'Lady,' brindle, black, owned by W. W. Wollin, 351 Ringold street.

No. 565—'Bray,' pointer, owner, Katherine Gray, 208 Cherry street.

No. 566—'Queenie,' fox terrier, owner, Sim H. Dorn, 20 North Main street.

No. 567—'Queenie,' fox terrier, owner, Maryn McKelvey, 102 Union street.

No. 568—'Nils,' French poodle, owner, Mrs. William Albright.

No. 569—'Peg,' Pomeranian Spitz, owner, E. J. Quinn, 212 Center avenue.

No. 570—'Jingo,' pointer, owner, E. R. Winslow, 305 South Main street.

Dog owners have until Feb. 1 to get their licenses. The fee is $1 for a male dog and $2 for a female. No tag is required for dogs under six months of age.

New automobile licenses have already made their appearance on Janesville cars. The plates are dark blue with white figures and lettering, a style much different than that of 1931.

CITY IS TURNED INTO SKATING RINK

Janesville Skids to Work on Sheet of Ice Covering Streets, Walks.

Janesville skated to work Wednesday morning, and skated, skated, skated the fox-trot trying to stand up, while the most careful of pedestrians found walking dangerous and few were those who navigated the sidewalks without slipping, once and having the scare of their lives. No serious accidents were reported to the police department, despite the hazardous conditions.

Rain starting to fall shortly before midnight Tuesday, continued almost early Wednesday morning, freezing almost as fast as it struck the ground. By 8 a. m. the streets and sidewalks were a white sheet of ice.

Walks Are Sanded.
Street Commissioner Thomas McKelvey, recognizing the danger to life and limb, had the city streets and sidewalks sanded early Wednesday morning and sand was spread broadcast through the downtown section.

Although the thermometer stood at 32 degrees at 3 a. m., the ice remained, preventing treacherous paths for pedestrians and vehicles. East side hills were almost impassable. Cars without chains were stuck in the snow.

By 10 a. m. conditions were alleviated to some extent by a typical January thaw, coupled with more rain. The mercury stood at 35. The streets were sanded, and the sidewalks were sanded.

Many acrobatic comedies and pantomimes were staged by the public on its way to work Wednesday morning. Many took resounding tumbles on ice-coated walks while others who took to the streets found it equally dangerous. Old women were practically helpless, especially on the hills.

One Sixth ward man started to ride to work on his bicycle, but fell after going 10 feet and about 100 yards. Two girls started a slide for life attempting to cross the Court street intersection of Bluff. The girls were heavy, and a short stretch of rope left around the neck, and said:

"I was customary to bury a man hanged with the rope and black cap in place," he declared.

Holk Golden, a young farmer of Newman, was questioned concerning a letter he recently wrote Senator Watson and to the effect that a soldier was shot by orders of a major because he went to a soldier's club. The man killed, he said, was ordered to remain under cover and a soldier, disobeying, started toward the spring and was shot. A bullet was raging near by and he was trying to conceal the position of the squad.

"How far was the man out when shot?"

Golden then testified that he saw an officer shoot a private in the arm. The man killed, he said, was an Italian from New York.

"Any talk about it in your company or any complaint made?"

"I didn't hear any."

"After you saw a man fall dead, you got out did you?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you make an inquiry to find why the man was shot?" the chairman persisted.

"I don't think about it."

The officer, the witness added, said he had orders to shoot the man.

Golden declared the officer, to the best of his knowledge, killed the Italian because he was the last of the platoon, and failed to report when the platoon came up.

"What month was the shooting at the spring?"

"I don't know. I didn't keep up with the months."

Golden testified that the captain of his company was a Captain Lesseigne. Col. Debel explained that Lesseigne was a German name. Captain Lesseigne, now retired, at Madison, Wis., with the 10th infantry, with which Golden served, "Well, we call him in," said Chairman Brandegee.

KIVANIS CLUB THURSDAY.
President Oscar Nelson of the Kivans Club, calls attention to an error in the notice sent to members in that the Thursday luncheon is at noon and not Thursday night. There will be installation of new officers at noon. Luncheon is as usual at the Grand hotel.

Mr. A. H. Bugee, who was called by Fisher, Jr., former district attorney on charges of bribery and malfeasance, was completed Wednesday.

JANESVILLE COUPLE CELEBRATES GOLDEN WEDDING WEDNESDAY

A half century of wedded life has been the record of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Watt, South Main street, who were married in this city 50 years ago Tuesday night.

The celebration Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. Watt was the occasion of a dinner given in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atwood, 209 South Jackson street, the only couple living of those who stood with the Wats on their wedding day. Although but 14 guests were present at the wedding and they spent the evening in reminiscences, after which Mr. and Mrs. Watt were presented with a gift.

The wedding, which was performed at All Souls' church, now made over into the Woods Hall, Court street, was one of the most fashionable of the season. Five couples stood up with the pair, and a large reception followed. Mrs. Watt was Miss Josephine Dearborn.

Mr. Watt is one of the pioneer citizens of the country and one of the few remaining who remembers vividly the first census days, when wagons were drawn from town to town to house the census takers.

Mr. Watt has been connected with the Gazette as a society news writer for more than eight years and during that time has been very deeply interested in Janesville and its happenings.

Ruth Jeffris on National Y. W. C. A. Board.
Miss Ruth Jeffris, Janesville, has been appointed to the national board of the Y. W. C. A. of the United States.

Miss Jeffris is a member of this board, will be kept in touch with the chairman of the finance committee, of which she is a member, and to attend national conferences of the board and other national Y. W. C. A. organizations. The next conference will be at Hot Springs, Ark., in the spring.

Miss Jeffris has been one of the leaders of the Y. W. C. A. movement and girls' work in this city. When the drive to raise money for rooms and for organization of a Y. W. C. A. was started, she was one of the leaders, and has been active in all departments.

JANESVILLE SINGER IN FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE HERE

First appearance in public of Miss Sibyl Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor P. Richardson, St. Lawrence avenue, was made at the New Year's service at Trinity Episcopal church Sunday morning, when she sang "Gounod's Ave Maria," one of the most beautiful songs ever written. She was accompanied by Mrs. Eber, Arthur, on the violin and Mr. Arthur on the cello. Miss Richardson has been studying in the New York city under Brady, for a few years, and her voice, one of richness and depth feeling, was a revelation even to those who had heard her before her New York training. She returned to New York, Tuesday, to receive the receipt of these funds.

That the people of Janesville may meet with officers of the Wisconsin Artistic League and that they may discuss the law enforcement in this city with them, and with the local law-enforcement officials, a meeting is being held at the Methodist church at 7:30 Thursday night, under the auspices of the League.

T. P. Hutton, state superintendent, will speak and Mayor Welch, Chief of Police Charles Newmann and other police and county officials have been invited to attend and participate in the discussions.

The meeting is open and free to the public. Those attending may be asked to take any information as to law violation that may have come to their attention.

THE CHANGING DOMINATION IN LEADERSHIP.

With the death of Boies Penrose comes a change in the geographical location of senate leadership. That leadership comes through the chairmanships of the important committees. Penrose was the head of the Finance committee, succeeding Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island. It has been headed by an Eastern man for 60 years. This committee has to do with tariff and taxation legislation which by the constitution must originate in the house of representatives. In the present congress it is a powerful committee because it has to do with taxation and tariff. The ranking member who under the rule of seniority succeeds Penrose, is Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota. While McCumber has been placed generally heretofore with the Penrose followers in the senate, recently he has followed less that leadership than the policy that would naturally be dictated from the interests of his own state.

Unconsciously and regrettably we have been making legislation more and more on sectional lines and raising the sectional and class issues. Once it was between the north and the south but now it is between the east and the west. This situation has been precipitated largely by the eastern senators and representatives who have failed to recognize the fact that this was a nation of both industrial and agricultural wealth and development. The very failure of Penrose and his supporters, to appreciate the fact, made the agricultural bloc necessary as a protective measure against the enactment of legislation inimical to the farmer. It is to be hoped that with Senator McCumber in the chairmanship he may hold the committee on an even keel against the assaults of the eastern interests or the radicalism represented by another member of his committee, the senior senator from Wisconsin. With the elevation also of McCumber comes the chairmanship of the committee on Public Lands to Senator Leonard who has in recent months shown qualities for leadership recognized by the senate and the administration.

From the suit for a replevin for the Ku Klux Klan it is evident that some wrong foot is set into Kileglo.

MUST HAVE A WELCOME CAMP.

When the thousands of tourists come through Janesville next summer there must be a place to receive them. The tourist camp business last year was bungled and after the summer was over it became apparent that we had no camp and the tourist was going on somewhere else where a realization of his value to the state was more keenly appreciated. It is time now to get busy and make the necessary arrangements for the camp. With the completion of the cement road from Rockford to Edgerton, with the attractions of the state learned from last year's experiences when 200,000 tourists tried the roads, with Rockford and other Illinois cities advertising the route through Janesville to the north, we may expect a great business in the tourist line. Wisconsin scenery will be a commodity on sale from the line to Lake Superior, and while it would not be true to say that all roads lead through Janesville it is true that the best one does. Let us capitalize opportunity to the fullest extent.

Mr. Ziefeld says he will have no more follies but the follies will go on just the same.

JAPAN AND BORAH IN ACCORD.

Opponents of the four power agreement have had the chair pulled from under them and they are compelled to sit on the floor of argument. The greatest emphasis was placed on the point that the Japanese mainland was included in the agreement and that this was anathema to the United States as it made us a guarantor of the territory of the Nipponese empire. Japan, evidently had no such notion, for immediately on discovering that this interpretation was being placed on the treaty the Nipponese government demanded that it be changed. Japan refused to accept a treaty that placed her in a position where there could be the exercise of paternalism by other governments. So the treaty is to be so changed as to except Japan's mainland thus leaving the opponents of the pact sprawling in search of other objections.

Lipstick taste, like that of olives, is acquired.

The Postoffice and the Missing Man

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington—Will Hays' plan to help locate missing persons has resulted so far in a large amount of correspondence for the post office department, some reunited families, and a few puzzled postmasters who have searched the postal regulations in vain for instructions showing how to proceed in a search for missing relatives.

Mr. Hays has no idea, it seems, of turning the post office department into a complete detective agency. It merely seemed to him one day that it was rather cold-blooded to turn down by formal letter requests for help in locating lost husbands and wandering sons.

Please for help in such cases have always come to the government. Many people seem to think that the post office department has a huge alphabetical file to all the persons in the United States. As a matter of fact it has no such list. Nor have the local post offices any card catalogues of the populations they serve. The only reference list to which a postmaster can refer in delivering mail is to persons whose address is known to the office directory—the same book that is available to the public in drug stores, libraries, and hotels all over the country.

Incidentally, there is also a popular belief that the census bureau has an alphabetical list of the population, and as a result the bureau receives a large number of requests for addresses of missing persons. The census bureau, of course, has no way of giving these persons any satisfaction. The records taken by the bureau enumerators are positively confidential.

The state department is a third government office that has often been asked to help locate the missing men and women. The state department almost never tries to trace persons in this country. Where foreigners are searching for lost relatives they are generally referred to their consuls in this country. So, in the past, seekers for missing relatives have received scant help from the government. Mr. Hays considered the rule which says that postmasters may not give out information concerning the names and addresses of persons using the mails. He recognized that the rule is wise in that it insures to persons using the mails protection against annoyance. That was the purpose of the regulation and the postmaster general had no desire to change it. Every one who entrusts letters to the United States mails is assured that employees are not allowed to tamper with them, and the regulation is safeguarded by heavy penalties.

But if the relatives who were separated by accident could be brought together without violating the spirit of the rule, Mr. Hays decided that the service rendered would be valuable to the public.

Mr. Hays' plan is simple. Those who are eager to locate missing relatives go to their local postmaster in person and consult with him, giving such facts as the last city where the missing man or woman lived, name, description, and why it is desired to get in touch with him or her.

This last is especially important. It is the main reason why the seeker is urged to go direct to the postmaster, instead of writing a letter. The post office department has no intention of helping to locate persons who are being sought for the purpose of collecting debts, nor does it wish to pursue persons who do not desire to be "found."

Credit agencies are already asking the department to help them find disappearing customers. Defrauded men are trying through the post office to locate confidence men who cheated them and departed over night. Some of them feel that they are no less heartbroken than a father who has just as his daughter for five years, and they are just as anxious as he to locate their "missing" friends.

This is work for the police. It is not the business of the post office department, and it is not the service of good will which the postmaster general wants his postmasters to perform.

Mr. Hays points out that hunting for missing men is not a part of the department's work by any order, and that the department has not obliged itself to find the thousands of lost persons in the country. What Mr. Hays did do was to suggest that he would like the postmasters to do what they can to help sincere persons who have been unable to locate relatives.

The postmaster general's printed suggestion, sent out to the post offices, leaves details as to how this assistance is to be given to the judgment of the postmaster. After he talks with an inquirer the postmaster may decide that there is no due to follow, or he may feel that the quest, if successful, would not end in a happy family reunion.

If he does feel that the visitor is sincere, he proceeds by inspiration. He may get in touch with postmasters where the missing man has been. Some postmasters have inserted notices in local newspapers. They have notified police departments. They have given their letter carriers instructions to keep a lookout for a man or woman answering the description given. Some of the missing men have been located in these ways.

When a person thus sought is identified, he is told that he is being inquired after. If he wishes to get in touch with the mother, or whoever it is seeking him, he does so. If he does not wish to be reunited to his family, the post office department does nothing further. It has no wish to become involved in any domestic affairs.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

SELF-DENIAL.
 To gratify a whim is fine, it's fun to loaf along the way.
 It's nice to let the little things which make for comfort pay for day.
 To live in luxury is what we all desire beyond a doubt.
 But after all, success is won by what we'll bravely do without.

Nobody ever got to fame by treading only easy ways.
 And none by shirking bitter tasks has ever won word of praise.
 For every lofty goal we seek, each one of us must pay the price.
 There is no victory worth while but what is born of sacrifice.

Who seems to do the hard work now, will have to do it later on.
 No fortune shall we ever build on money that is spent and gone.
 And though we dream of greater joys that we shall claim along the way,
 They will not come to us unless some joys we do without today.

We'll never come to wealth or fame upon the whims we gratify.
 In comfort and the luxuries the greater victories do not lie.
 For victory there is a price which every man is asked to pay.
 Who would have much tomorrow here must do without as much today.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

CONTRIBUTED.
 My sweetheart's young and snappy.
 But his bank account is low.
 My friend's old and scrappy.
 But he surely has the dough.

And people often ask me.
 Would I trade things if I could?
 Would I trade my youth for her old man?
 I'll tell the world I would.

Census report says the population is 16 per cent denser than in 1910. There are times when we can almost believe that.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN—FRIENDSHIP?

Who's Who Today

CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS.
 Miss Charl Ormond Williams of Memphis, Tenn., was recently elected president of the National Education Association of the United States.

Miss Williams, who is superintendent of the Shelby county schools, Memphis, Tenn., has gone step by step for a number of years in the educational field. She worked with the Democratic platform; later she worked with the Democratic organization in Washington and New York.

She also is an ardent suffragist and was one of the principal workers for the ratification of the nineteenth amendment, giving the vote to millions of women in the United States.

Miss Williams is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the education association, having filled almost every office in this body during the past four or five years.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Unimportant Even If True.
 Senator La Follette of Wisconsin has discovered a "conspiracy" engineered by railroad executives and including large steel and coal interests and some farm organizations, to perpetuate that feature of the Transportation Act which "guarantees" to the railroads a fair return.

This is one of those things which are not important even if true. The Transportation Act "guarantees" nothing of the kind. It specifies 5 1/2 per cent as a "fair return," to continue up to March 1 next, and the Interstate Commerce Commission proceeded to mark up rates calculated on the basis of 5 1/2 per cent. But practice has failed to conform to theory. Strange as it may seem to the Commissioners and the railroad executives, old economic laws are not so readily repealed as all that.

People have refused to buy as much transportation at high rates as they did at the lower rates. Traffic has fallen off enormously. Gross railroad revenues for the ending calendar year have shrunk seriously. But by dint of reducing wages and other expenses net income has been increased. The last year for the stronger roads at least. Nevertheless, this net income will not equal 5 1/2 per cent. It will hardly equal 5 per cent.

If there is any "guarantee" about the business, then the government will shut the government down on the roads any amount by which their net income falls short of 5 1/2 per cent on property values. But the government will do no such thing. It will make up nothing to the roads, and they know it very well, even if Senator La Follette does not.

The Transportation Act has enough defects to answer for without lugging in one which does not exist. The railroads to this extent are still subject to natural economic laws, and the account of their executives recognizing the fact the better it will be for the roads.—New York World.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO.
 Jan. 4, 1882.—There were but four interments in Oak Hill cemetery during the last month.—James A. Patners was elected to head the No. 99 lodge. Odd Fellows for the coming year at the meeting last night.—Gibbith brothers sold their stallion "Glencoe" yesterday. It was one of the best-known horses in this section of the country.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 4, 1892.—City Clerk Bates reports there is but $500 in the city treasury and that salaries amounting to $800 for judges and clerks, are due. No money is left to pay the salaries of the Rock County insane asylum and poorhouse had a narrow escape from death by fire in the middle of last night. An over-heated stove started the fire.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 2, 1902.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the president, makes her debut at the White House.—Congress will re-open Monday. One of the main questions to be free trade with the Philippines.—Young people of the Baptist churches from Rock and Grant counties are meeting here today and tomorrow.

TEN YEARS AGO

Jan. 4, 1912.—Over half a million dollars in money and credits has been added to the Janesville assessment roll by the state tax commission.—Syrian Coran and Mohammed Brinker were married today. It is reported to be the first leap-year wedding. The groom is said to be more than 80 years old.

GOD WILL PROVIDE

Take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, What shall we be clothed? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6: 31, 33.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

ARTHRITIS.
 Arthritis was the title I intended to use for this talk. Then I changed my mind because that seemed a little too dry, and decided to call it Joint Inflammation. Then I changed my mind because that didn't seem quite accurate, since I meant to discuss chronic rheumatism, which has little about it that is inflammatory in the popular sense of the word, and then I happened to recall that there is no such condition as rheumatism, as I am sure you are all well acquainted with the little Arthritis, which is medical for joint inflammation or rheumatism. Sometimes I regret having abolished rheumatism, colds, catarrhs, nervous breakdowns and indigestion, for which the misleading names help a doctor out of an embarrassing situation and soothe his patients or readers too.

Dr. Ralph Pemberton, Philadelphia, having carefully studied some 400 cases of chronic or long enduring joint trouble in an army hospital, draws some striking conclusions. I am reluctant to note this "precipitating factor" in rather more than half of the cases, though he carefully points out the chief or primary cause, bacterial infection, generally of the joints, and also circumscribes the "precipitating factor" in the body. Other "precipitating factors" were such tangible conditions as influenza, typhoid fever, pneumonia, injury, etc. As for exposure, it seemed that the soldiers had been subjected to cruel exposure to cold, mud and wet, in France. But after all, how very few of the men so exposed suffered arthritis or any other rheumatic disease. Dr. Pemberton assumes, without scientific support, furthermore, the opposite conception, namely that chilling of the body brings about a congestion, say of the lungs, that is an excess of blood in the system, and blood supply to the joints is increased, and that this is the cause of the disease, and therefore, precipitating factor of pneumonia or some such other infectious condition; in fact the old time doctors believed that the chilling of the joints and sufficient cause of pneumonia.

The conception of diminished blood supply and consequently diminished metabolism, diminished oxidation, and blood stasis in the joints, and the structures in particular, has taken a firm hold of Dr. Pemberton's mind. He weighs all the methods of treatment which have been given apparent benefit in chronic arthritis, and determines their value by measuring their effect upon the local blood supply of the joint, and upon the general and local metabolism. On this score—and here I step gracefully over to Dr. Pemberton's support—he extols one remedy which many victims of chronic arthritis, and especially of chronic rheumatism, have neglected, namely, exercise, because it increases oxidation and everything.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Bright's Disease.
 Please to me whether one with chronic Bright's disease should abstain from tomatoes, also whether he may eat red meats (L. M. H.).
 Answer.—Tomatoes are rather beneficial for a nephritic, and red meats are not harmful in the case of the disease. Take the milk hot or cold as you prefer.

Tomato and Milk.
 Is it injurious to drink tomato right along instead of water when one is thirsty? Is a glass of milk on going to bed at night "relaxing"? If not, would cold or hot milk be preferable? (E. S. T.).
 Answer.—Tomatoes are all right to drink habitually. If you are underweight or a poor sleeper, milk or milk and tomato is better than water. If you are heavy, take the milk hot or cold as you prefer.

Boys' and Girls' Club.
 Boy's and girls' club below par? discharge from very large tonsils. Doctor advised removal of the tonsils as essential to overcome caries. Another said the boy will outgrow it. Will he? (D. C. E.).
 Answer.—A doctor who calls a patient a child will outgrow such trouble ought to have a leather medal. Most such caries in children are secondary to the tonsils and adenoids in the throat, and if you value that boy's health and his life you will have the tonsils and adenoids removed. Long diseased tonsils never do anybody any good.

Veil from the Dim Past.
 Should windows be kept open on foggy, damp nights? I have heard that damp night air is pernicious, and that windows should be kept closed on such nights. (J. E. P.).
 Answer.—The air on such nights is rather cleaner or purer than ordinary.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with return address. Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

Q. Are oysters more digestible cooked or raw?
 A. A well known authority claims that oysters are more easily digested when eaten raw than when cooked.

Q. What is the meaning of Kwan-lai D. J.
 A. "Kwan-lai" is a coined word derived from the Chinese phrase meaning "we trade."

Q. Why aren't Chinese allowed to be buried in this country?
 A. There is no law prohibiting the burial of Chinese in the United States. Some are buried here, but the Chinese prefer being buried in their own country.

Q. Does the discharging of a rifle cause one noise or two?
 A. The rifle has separate noises when a gun is discharged, the report noise and the bullet-hiss noise.

Q. How did Governor's Island get its name?
 A. The Dutch called the island "Nooten" and the English translated it as Nut Island. The Indians called it Governor's Island. In 1624 the island was set aside for the use of the Dutch and the English. In 1781 the name was changed to Governor's Island in recognition of its long tenancy by the Dutch and English colonial governments.

Q. At the present rate of go, how long will Hickory in this country last?
 A. The forest service says that at the present rate of usage of hickory there is a possibility of exhausting the supply within 20 years.

Q. Late last summer my red raspberry bushes reached over and the one which course to take in treatment sent me taken root. Kindly inform me.
 A. The department of agriculture says there is nothing to worry about in a case of this kind. You can either leave the plant as it is or else cut out the rooting tips for propagating purposes.

FEAR DIVORCE IS TO PREVENT 50TH WEDDING JUBILEE

Divorce proceedings instituted by the wife threaten to shatter the dreams of George Buskirk, native of Janesville and wealthy farmer of Nebraska, of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary next year. Buskirk is a brother of Fred Buskirk, prominent farmer of the town of Rock living near Orfordville.

George Buskirk, living in the town of Rock, was married in Janesville in 1871 to Miss Jane Terwilliger, also of that part of Rock county. She is well known here and is a cousin of Mrs. Fred Mennecke, Janesville, as well as the Terwilliger family. Inspired with the call of the west, the couple left Rock county and went to Nebraska.

Now when prosperity has become a permanent part of their life and after 49 years spent as husband and wife, Mrs. Buskirk has filed suit in the Wayne county court for a divorce or their anniversary, charging cruelty and non-support.

The couple had 12 children, seven of whom are living.

TAXLESS DRINKS ARE WELCOMED HERE

What a grand and glorious feeling to walk into a store to buy an ice cream sundae, soda or a drink, or into a drug store for cosmetics or toilet articles!

True, and that is the experience of many this week, the first of the taxless days for ever before. It was the chance expressed considerable relief at not having to bother with the tax. Amendments are being made to menu cards in many places.

"One doesn't realize what a nuisance it is, unless he has to add to his bill," said one soda fountain operator.

As a consequence, there is less of a demand for pennies. People found by experience that pennies make dollars, during the past two years, more perhaps than ever before. It was true on this and a penny on that. They even considered tooth paste a

SYNOPSIS
Thrown out of a job in his father's livery stable because of failure, George Morton becomes a horse wrangler for Old Planter, a rich and arrogant. The road leads in love with Sylvia Platter, and when she falls from her horse, he kisses her. This brings on a fight. Morton leaves, goes to Princeton and determines on a college education. He makes the football team, studies with intense devotion and the aid of a tutor, George Baily.

It was good to feel the vapours of the market-place leaving his lungs and brain. Goodhue and he, during the easy preliminary work, resumed their hunt. He felt he hadn't really gone back. If he didn't get hurt he would do things that fall that would drive the perplexed crowd from Baily's forehead. And Sylvia's admiration, whatever happened he was going to take care of her brother in the Yale game.

Betty was rather too insistent about that. She had fallen into the habit of looking down and Goodhue on their runs for a moment's gossip. "See here, Betty," Goodhue laughed once, "you're rather too interested in this Baily Platter."

True Detective Stories THE DEVONSHIRE DIAMONDS

Mad Lady Alberta Devon had yielded to temptation at the last moment and stepped out of her boudoir to secure the opinion of the expert upon the effect of her latest Parisian creation. It is quite possible that Inspector John Sweeney of Scotland Yard would not have had the opportunity of proving his detective genius in a peculiarly striking manner.

Lady Alberta was absent from her room for less than 10 minutes; but during that time occurred the events which, for several hours, threatened to disrupt several of the highest social circles in England.

It was the night of the Devon ball, held in the big old-fashioned house, the center of the Devon estate. As was only to be expected, the list of guests read like a section from Burke's Peerage—a fact which made Inspector Sweeney's work distinctly more difficult when the loss of the famous necklace of Devonshire was reported to Scotland Yard.

Early in the evening Lady Alberta had dismissed her maid to get ready for the ball, and she would complete her toilette herself, but just as she was about to put on her necklace—an heirloom which had greatly interested her late husband, she noticed a faint connection—she thought it would be best to secure an unbiased opinion as to the effect of her gown, which had just arrived from Paris.

When she reached the door, she found a maid waiting for her. The maid, a few minutes later, she reached for the necklace, only to discover that it had vanished!

Positive that she had had it in her hands less than a minute before, she summoned the maid, and then, summoned her husband, whom she told of the mysterious loss.

"There is only one thing to do," declared his lordship, after a moment's pause. "We must search the house for the necklace, and that is to notify the police."

Inspector Sweeney reached the Devon house shortly after midnight, while the ball was still in progress, and secured the meager details of the case directly from her ladyship.

"Did you notice any one in the hall as you passed through on the way to your sister's room?" Sweeney asked. "No one at all."

"How long has your maid been with you?"
"Less than two months—but she came well recommended."

Finally, in spite of protests, the operative from Scotland Yard gave orders that no one was to leave the grounds of the Devon estate without his permission, and, as the ball formed part of the week's festivities, it was possible to arrange this without mentioning the reason for the request to the guests. Armed with a list of those present, with their servants, Sweeney then repaired to Lady Devon's boudoir to commence active investigations.

knowledge that now, at the commencement of his second year, he approached the culmination of his entire college course. With the club member's status there would remain little for him save a deepening of useful friendships and a squeezing of the opportunity to acquire knowledge and a proper manner. For the same cause, the approaching election of officers for Sophomore year was of vital importance. It was generally conceded that the ticket put through now, barring accident, would be elected senior year to go out into the world at the head of the class. The presidency would graduate a man with a patent of nobility, as one might say. George guessed that all of Wandel's intrigues led to the re-election of Goodhue. He wanted that influential office in his own crowd. Even now George couldn't wholly sound Wandel's desires with him. He yielded to the general interest and uncertainty. Squibs had been right. Princeton did hold a fair sample of it all. He understood that very much as this affair was arranged he would see the political destinies of the country just ahead of him.

Allen got him alone, begging for his decision. "Have you been asked for a club yet?"
"None of your business," George said, promptly.

"You've got to make up your mind in a hurry," Allen urged. "Promise me now that you'll leave the clubs alone, then I can handle Mr. Wandel." George asked, quickly.

"No, Mr. Wandel is trying to make up his mind."

But George couldn't make up his mind. There were other problems as critical as the clubs. Could he afford to fight Dick Goodhue for that? If only he could find out what the Goodhue stood for. He had an opportunity to learn one evening, and conquered a passionate desire to cavort. As he ran lightly up the stairs to his room he heard through the open study door Wandel and Goodhue talking with an unaccustomed heat.

"You can't take such an attitude," Wandel was saying.

"I've taken it."

"Change your mind," Wandel urged. "I've nursed him alone as the only possible tie between two otherwise irreconcilable elements of the class. I tell you I can't put you over unless you come to your senses."

George hurried in and nodded. From their faces he gathered there had been a fair row. Wandel grasped his arm. George stiffened. Something was coming now. "I wasn't quite what he had expected."

"How would you like," Wandel said, "to be the very distinguished secretary of your class?"

George gazed from the window at the tree-bordered lawn where lesser men contentedly kicked footballs to each other.

"It ought to be what the class likes," he muttered. "I'm really only interested in seeing Dick rejected."

"If," Wandel said, "I told you it couldn't be done without your distinguished and untrammelled name on the ticket?"

George flushed.

"What do you mean by untrammelled?"

"You stop that, Spike," Goodhue said, more disturbed than George had ever seen him. "It's indecent. I won't have it."

George relaxed. Untrammelled had certainly meant free from the taint of the clubs. He was grateful Goodhue had interfered.

"Why don't you run for something yourself, Mr. Wandel?" he asked, dryly.

Goodhue laughed.

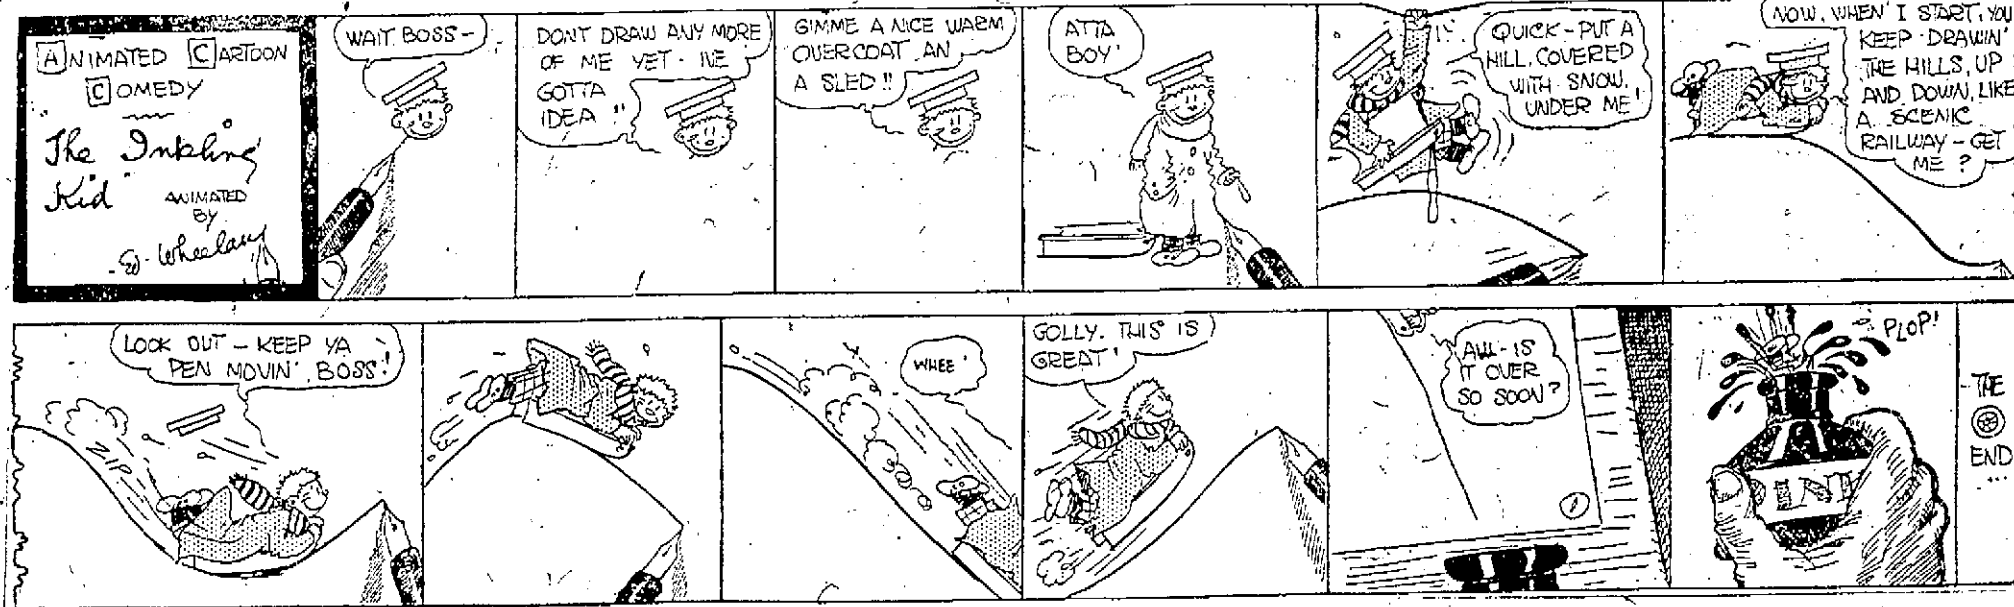

"Carry your filthy politics somewhere else."

He and George, with an affection of good nature, pushed each other into the room. They looked at each other. Neither said anything.

"Tinker Bob" Stories by Carlyle H. Holcomb

THE BROAD FLAT TAIL WENT "PLASH SLAP!"

Did I tell you how very interested Mrs. Major was in all of this? The peculiar noise of the forest that none of the creatures seemed to understand? Well it has been said that Major was the freest fellow of them all and that no one could find him because of his ability to protect himself. This is true with one exception and that exception is Mrs. Major. Now she knows just how to make Mr. Major Pole Cat walk straight.

Major wanted to go down the river a little way with the King and the other forest dwellers but he was out walking with his wife so he behaved very differently than when he was alone. He looked at her and then at the King. Then he looked at the others of the party. "Well," said Mrs. Major, "you just come along with me. You wanted me to take this walk with you through the forest and now you will stay with me till we get back home. It's not stand having any one else talk to him after this manner but he didn't seem to care any more when Mrs. Major spoke this way."

Dinner Stories

Johnnie and his mother were on a visit to Johnnie's grandmother. Grandmother, knowing how well he liked cake, decided to see that he had as much as he wanted.

and then asked, "Johnnie, can you still swallow cake?"

The reply came in a weak voice: "No'm, but I can still chew."

The children had an old-fashioned music box. Their music was the air of all nations; and mother, in the room below the nursery, was shocked to hear "The Wagon on the Rhine" played at frequent intervals. So she called the little ones down.

"Eileen," she said to the eldest, aged nine, "do you know what that tune you are playing so much is?"

Before Helen could answer, up piped Bill, a lad of five, "Why, of course, mother, it's the German man song, but you see we play it when we're tired and want to sit down!"

Texas are just naturally partisans. A man from that state called at the Journal office the other day. In reply to a question, he said: "Yes, the country where Ah live want republican at election, but it's so's now it went that way. Heddin' Ah," so people as he was. Ah had a fellow say some remarks 'bout that today right here in Tulsa. He said: 'Some great liberators have lived in this country. Lincoln, he freed the slaves; Henry Ford freed the tired piano players; Heddin' freed the working men from hard labaw. Ah'n't no work now but fo' 'ray few."

An amateur mountain climber, relating his experience in the Rockies, said: "You know you can mighty nigh stand up straight and bite the ground; goin' down a man wants hobnails on the seat of his trousers."

News for Farmers

Farm Bureau Official Information

PAVILION BOOSTED BY FARM LEADERS

Committee of Seven to Be in Charge of Fair Stock Sale and Building.

The fair board has always wanted a judging pavilion which can be used for sales, for we want the interest of every farmer and breeder in better livestock and showing it in the county and Janesville fairs.

Representatives of the breed associations all spoke in favor of the plan and agreement was made to have the committee of seven formulate the plans. As soon as appointed this committee will make estimates and then later determine the manner for selling the fair stock to pay for the pavilion.

We have already secured a pavilion which we will use for the fair stock sale and we will also use it for the fair stock sale and we will also use it for the fair stock sale.

It is proposed to adopt liberal credit plans for financing a building to not cost more than $10,000. The plan can be used for the fair stock sale and we will also use it for the fair stock sale.

With a committee of seven in charge the building of the county stock pavilion will be accomplished in the coming summer in time to be used at the Janesville fair. The plan for the sale of stock is to be undertaken this summer and pushed in a short, live and get them campaign.

There were more than 30 attending the conference. The plan for the sale of stock is to be undertaken this summer and pushed in a short, live and get them campaign.

Holstein Breeders Plan Big Campaign for Bettering Herds

Obtaining an effective organization for the Holstein breeders is the plan for the coming year. The plan for the sale of stock is to be undertaken this summer and pushed in a short, live and get them campaign.

Prizes are to be put up for a Holstein calf club and it was proposed to sell only Holstein calves. The plan for the sale of stock is to be undertaken this summer and pushed in a short, live and get them campaign.

THESE HENS LAY EGGS FOR PROFIT TO THEIR ACTIVE BOSS

(Special to the Gazette.)

Kilbuck's Three hundred and twenty-four eggs a day from 100 pullets and 100 yearling hens during the last week of December. This is a report of Mrs. L. W. Kilbuck, of Janesville.

This farmer's wife has made this record in winter egg production without any fancy equipment, or worked under no more favorable conditions than many of her neighbors.

The laying mash is composed of 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds corn meal, mixed with 40 pounds meat scrap. The mash is kept in a feed box which is open to the chickens.

The straw in the peak of the building is a very necessary part of the system. The straw is allowed to enter in liberal quantities through the windows.

There were more than 30 attending the conference. The plan for the sale of stock is to be undertaken this summer and pushed in a short, live and get them campaign.

Agriculture the Nation's Greatest and Best Asset

It is unthinkable that with our vast resources, our unparalleled abundance of agricultural resources, our fertility of soil, our vast home market and the great ability and resourcefulness of our farmers, we should accept the status of a distinctly industrial nation.

Cardinals' Battle Here Tonight Is State Title Affair

BRIGHT SPOTS OUT FOR BLOOD; WATSON TO BE IN UNIFORM

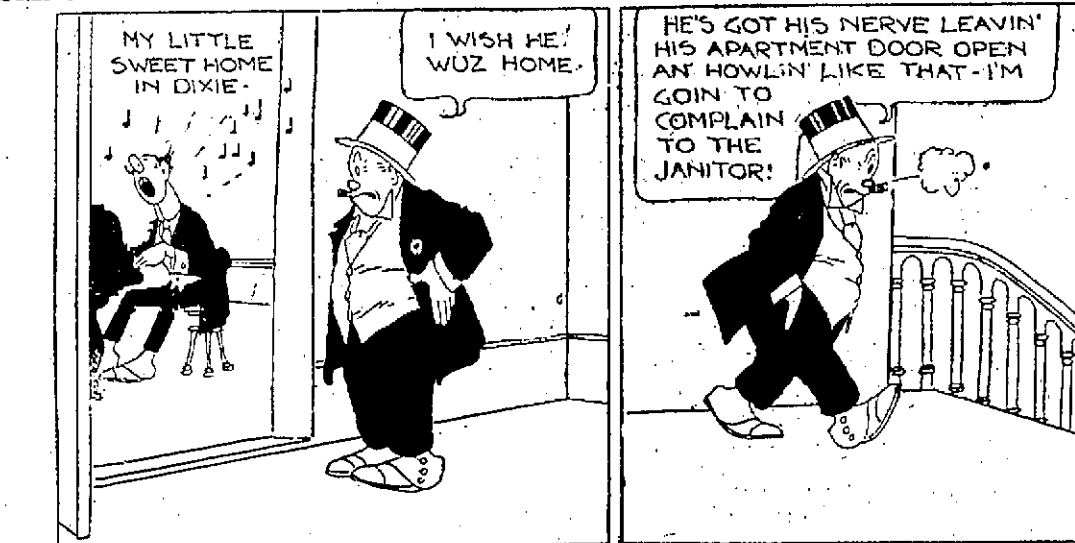

TONIGHT'S LINEUPS
Lakota Cardinals—Bright Spots—Janesville
Janesville—Bright Spots—Lakota Cardinals

Carl Watson, one of the greatest basketball players in the west, will be with the Milwaukee Bright Spots, state title claimants, when they clash with the Lakota Cardinals at the Coliseum rink here at 8:30 Wednesday night in "the battle of a century."

Announcement that Watson would be here was received by Manager Joseph Denning in a telegram, Wednesday, from Manager "Shiny" O'Connor of the Bright Spots. Watson stated further that Watson will take the place of Bill Johnson, unable to play on account of an infected knee.

Watson is a dangerous man, fast as they make on and bus. Bright Spots members of the Lakota Cardinals who recall the days in 1918 when they won the I. A. C. tournament at Chicago, will never forget Watson. Watson, with never forget Watson. Watson, with never forget Watson. Watson, with never forget Watson.

J. H. S. Works for Game With Brodhead, Friday

In expectation of a hard fight with the Brodhead high school team here, Friday night, at the high school gymnasium, the Janesville high school squad had a hard work-out against the American Legion, Tuesday night. After practicing shooting at all angles of the court for a half hour, the team was sent in against the Legion team, led by Victor Homming. The entire squad was allowed a chance to play with the result that the Legion five won 22-24.

The team is getting into fine shape and promises to duplicate the record set by the team last year. Coach Floyd Keyser is grooming several substitutes, to fill the gap which the mid-year graduates will make. Several of the boys may take post-graduate work after February 1 and be allowed to play on the team for the rest of the season.

The Blues are not underestimating the strength of the Brodhead team, which two years ago invaded Janesville and returned to the Green County town with the Blues' scalp. The Janesville team from their experience at Monticello a week ago when they managed to nose out a victory, are aware of the fact that the Green County blues develop wonderful basketball stars.

The same Friday night should be a thriller. The Monticello game was declared by Floyd Keyser to be the fastest ever seen in Southern Wisconsin.

At the Theatres

"Don't Tell Everything," now showing at the Myers theater, gives the audience advice and points out the difficulties of one who "tells everything." It is a picture of engaged and married life and its hardships, and is full of humorous situations.

The theme of the eternal triangle is made manifest in "The Wife and the Maid," a rich, spoiled young lady who immediately becomes jealous of her lover's devotion to a former pal in the mountains. This pal, however, had turned from pal to lover and complications resulted. The story is told only by the appearance of the wife and the old-time friend of the husband.

Wallace Reid, Elliott Dexter and Gloria Swanson, three of the screen's best-known stars, feature in the picture which will be repeated Wednesday and Thursday nights. Acting, scenery and costumes are all good.

Lakotas to Send 2 Teams to Pin Meet at Madison

Members of the Lakota club swung into line, Monday night, as boosters for Janesville in the night to land the 1922 state bowling tournament here, when they voted unanimously to send two teams to the 1922 meet at Madison, which opens this month. The proposition, presented to the club by President Reno Koch, met with instant approval. Other lodges and clubs will be asked to send teams with the hope that at least 50 clubs will be secured to represent Janesville, materially increasing the city's tournament chances by showing an enthusiasm and spirit to warrant a successful meet here.

Asthmatic Sufferers May Know Health Again

Among the so-called incurable chronic diseases is asthma. Sufferers from asthma have come to look upon their condition as something to be endured, rather than conquered. The sufferer from asthma seldom dies in an attack, but the suffering is agonizing.

The structural condition of the spine in the region of the collar bone is invariably the same in every sufferer from asthma. Pressure upon spinal nerves at this point affecting the bronchial passages, has the effect of weakening the bronchial functions and bringing on the asthmatic condition. Chiropractic spinal adjusting restores the spinal joints to alignment, removes the pressure on spinal nerves of supply to the bronchial region, and with the cause removed, the asthmatic sufferer is once more in normal health.

"Asthmatic Condition is Entirely Relieved."

"In spite of my chiropractic skepticism I am entirely relieved. Even the asthmatic wheeze has left me. I am now able to get a full night's rest. Specialists did me no good. I shall always be a booster for chiropractic."—Statement by Chiropractic Patient.
